Why NASCAR Raced Into Esports In 2019 – Tempemail

Every aspect of a NASCAR race can be affected by weather, from start to finish. That's why NASCAR is partnering with The Weather Company as "The Official Weather Partner of NASCAR."

The Weather Company, under The Weather Channel Brand, is providing NASCAR with a real-time weather insights dashboard, developed by Flagship Solutions Group and The Weather Company, an IBM Business, to provide critical weather insights to NASCAR operations.

With this solution, NASCAR will incorporate hyperlocal weather data and forecasts from The Weather Company into its races to improve race-day operations and fan engagement.

TRACK CONDITIONS ARE ALWAYS CHANGING WITH WEATHER CONDITIONS LIKE SUNLIGHT, TRACK TEMPERATURE AND MORE

DAY RACES	NIGHT RACES
Higher temperatures result in a slicker track and slightly slower lap times	Cooler temperatures result in more grip on the track and slightly faster lap times
Lower air pressure in fires	Cooler air increases horsepower

DO YOU KNOW? NASCAR national series tracks span in length from as short as the .526-mile Martinsville Speedway to as long as the 4-mile Road America road course, meaning weather temperature and conditions can vary at different points along certain tracks.

TUNING FOR THE WEATHER | HOW SUSPENSION, ENGINE TUNING AND AERODYNAMICS DEPEND ON THE FORECAST

WEATHER AND RACE STRATEGY

IN-RACE PIT STRATEGY CAN BE AFFECTED BY IMPENDING WEATHER
Crew chief may decide to only add fuel or change two tires to secure track position if a storm is on the horizon.

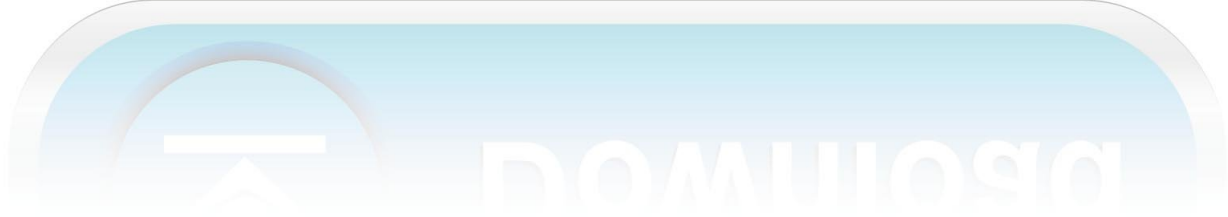

CLOUD COVER CAN DICTATE WHEN A DRIVER DECIDES TO TAKE THEIR QUALIFYING LAP;
Clouds can decrease track temperature, thus improving qualifying times

THERE IS NO A/C INSIDE A STOCK CAR;
Air conditioning units are extremely heavy and rob the engine of valuable horsepower. Drivers rely on ventilation for cooling.

Weather is not the final factor in what changes a crew chief makes to the car, but it impacts decision making on the car's setup, including shocks, springs, tire pressures, etc.
